BODY OF INDIAN GIRL INTERRED UNDER COVER OF NIGHT

Mystery Surrounds the Finding of Remains Buried Yesterday Morning and Disinterred Near McCarran's Ranch

Upon a gentle rising slope, buried under four feet of sand, the body of a young Indian girl was found yesterday morning by Patrick McCarran, near his ranch, sixteen miles east of this city, where it was apparently buried the night before by the parents.

Coroner Read went to the scene last night and is expected home this morning.

Patrick McCarran Sr. was sleeping in a cot on the porch of his house when he was awakened at 1 o'clock yesterday morning by a team passing the place. Two hours later he heard the team returning, and knowing they had not time to reach the Hill ranch, he ran out to intercept the nocturnal visitors, but when he halted them they put whip to the horses and escaped under the cover of the night.

Inasmuch as there had been considerable stealing in the neighborhood Mr. McCarran at daylight started up the road with a ranch hand, following the trail of the team. A quarter of a mile from his house the trail of the rig turned off and led up over the hill about 150 yards to a spot where it was apparent that something had been buried. The earth had been carefully tamped down.

The body was lying at an angle of 45 degrees, the feet elevated at the high point in the grave and the head down. The blood had run out of the mouth, saturating the handkerchief which had been wrapped around the head, but so far as could be seen there were no evidences of foul play. The body was wrapped in a shawl and in the grave was an extra dress. The girl's rings were upon her fingers and from the circumstances it is believed that the Indian girl died at some neighboring Indian camp and was taken out under the cover of the night, in accordance with an ancient Indian custom, and buried. It is believed

GALE ADDS FURY TO PORTLAND FIRE

Wind Blowing at Rate of Thirty Miles an Hour Carries the Flames Before It, Causing a Loss of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars

PORTLAND, Sept. 1.—With a gale blowing thirty miles an hour, a fire starting about noon today destroyed the dock of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company and the Pacific Elevator Company's warehouse in lower Albina.

The wind carried the flames across the Willamette river and the dry kiln of the Eastern and Western Lumber Company, on the west side, was also burned.

Previously a fire at St. Johns, a suburb of this city, one and a half miles down the river, had destroyed the plants of the St. Johns Lumber Company, the Oregon Fir Company and a wood yard of the Peninsula Wood Company.

A hundred freight cars on the O. R. and N. in lower Albina caught fire yesterday morning. They were completely destroyed, including their loads of wheat, lumber and miscellaneous freight.

The total loss will approximate over $250,000.

CONSUMPTION KILLING INDIANS OF NEVADA

The board of health last evening tendered a jolly smoker to all the physicians of Reno. In all about thirty physicians were present. The object of the gathering was to discuss the control of communicable diseases, a question that is now attracting considerable attention. Typhoid fever and tuberculosis were the main diseases discussed. Methods of combating them were also given at length.

It was shown that the Indians are afflicted with the great white plague, the disease is spreading and unless means of prevention are taken it will become epidemic in the state. There is no doubt but what good will result from the meeting. During the evening a repast was served.

Candy Made Them Sick

As the result of eating a quantity of poisoned candy, the two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Aikin are quite ill at their home on Park street. They were reported last night to be out of danger and it is now thought they will be able to be on the street soon.

that the spot was at one time an old Indian burial ground.

"There is but little doubt in my mind," said Mr. Ferrel upon his return, "that the Indian girl, who was as near as we could judge about 15 years of age, died from natural causes and she was buried by her parents. The tracks of the horses are those of Indian ponies. With the exception of a shoe on one of the horse's foot and a part of a shoe on the other, the team was barefooted. The tracks about the grave were those of a buck and a squaw. We took measurements of the tracks."

SAGHALIEN MAY BE POINT UPON WHICH PEACE MAY FALTER

If Russia and Japan Can Agree Not to Fortify the Great Island Stronghold Treaty Will be Signed Without Delay

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 1.—The only possible hitch on the horizon of the peace conference arises out of the evident misunderstanding over the question of the neutralization of the island of Saghalien.

According to the Japanese understanding reached on Tuesday the plan contemplates the mutual obligation on the part of the two countries not to fortify their respective possessions on the island.

At St. Petersburg, however, there seems to have been an assumption that the agreement involved a freedom of action upon the part of Russia in this respect in the north half of Saghalien.

With an obligation on the part of Japan not to fortify or use for strategic purposes the portion owned by her before 1876, which is to be retroceded in the present treaty.

It is believed on both sides, however, that the hitch, if it really exists as reported, will shortly be straightened out. It is believed that this was one of the subjects of the conference at today's meeting.

SECRET THAT WAS KEPT THREE WEEKS

Love and matrimony are two conditions difficult to conceal. This old maxim was again illustrated yesterday morning when Edward Collins, the popular driver of the hose wagon of Reno's fire department, made public confession of the fact that he is no longer a bachelor. Not only his friends but even his relatives did not know for certain that he had taken a bride, the happy young lady being formerly Miss Jessie Baxter. The wedding took place at Sacramento three weeks ago, while Mr. Collins was taking his vacation.

The bride is well known in Reno. She is a daughter of Mrs. M. Baxter. Mr. Collins is a son of ex-Sheriff William Collins, and an enterprising and industrious young man, popular with all who know him.

Rev. Arthur P. Brown, who has been called from Fresno to accept the pastorate in the Reno Baptist church, arrived here yesterday morning. Rev. FIRE DESTROYS OLD LANDMARK IN NEVADA COUNTY

Shaeffer Mill Burns to the Ground Near Truckee, Entailing a Total Loss of More Than Five Thousand Dollars

Special to The Journal

TRUCKEE, Sept. 1.—The Shaeffer mill, located six miles from this city, was destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of upwards of $5000. The flames also destroyed 150 yards of flume, a portion of the dam and seventy-five cords of wood. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Three mill hands were in the building at the time the mill was discovered to be enveloped in flames, but they were powerless to stop the fire.

The destruction of the mill marks the passing of one of the old landmarks of Nevada county. It was one of the first saw mills built in this section, having been completed twenty-eight years ago.

AMERICA'S MILITARY PREPARATION

ACCORDING to the Philadelphia Ledger plans are on foot to increase the military force of this nation. Briefly, they look to the formation of a regular service corps of 40,000 trained men, a national reserve of 100,000 and an organized state militia of at least 50,000. It is proposed to keep the army enlisted to its present strength of 60,000 men. With these reserves established the new plan would allow the president to call together an effective fighting force of 250,000 men at very short notice.

The first provision for this additional reserve is that this "regular reserve" should consist entirely of honorably discharged soldiers of the regular army against whom no objection to their re-enlistment is known to exist. Each of these men is to receive pay at the rate of $36 per annum. Their names and addresses will be filed, and they will be required to report to the war department every three months. They can only be called upon by the president. This reserve force would increase the regular army to its war footing of 100,000 men without impairing its efficiency. They would be swallowed up in the mass, and being ex-regulars, they would be trained for duty the moment they joined their command.

The second idea calls for the establishment of a voluntary "national reserve" of 100,000 men, who also shall receive a small annual salary. This scheme contemplates that this reserve shall consist of other honorably discharged soldiers of the regular army; of able-bodied American citizens not members of the National guard, but who have seen military service either as volunteers or in the militia, or at military institutions, and of other able-bodied citizens who express a desire to be enrolled in the reserves.

Besides these there would be the regular state militia, whose relation to the national government was greatly strengthened by congressional action a year or two ago. This would put 250,000 men within control of the president on the shortest possible notice.

That there is danger in this sort of thing cannot be doubted. A president could easily abuse his power were he impetuous and ill-advised. Moreover, occasions might arise when such power might be used to establish a president in a virtual dictatorship.

This nation has shown that it does not require a big standing army, apparent or disguised. Militarism is not a wholesome atmosphere to generate. We trust these elaborate plans are still on paper and will never be put into operation.

A DANCE OF DEATH

PATHOS the deeper because the Indians are unconscious of their certain and impending fate is that induced by the fact that out in Nevada last week the Washoe, Piute and Shoshone Indian tribes joined in another of their annual dances. They danced for three days and nights without cessation in celebration of a covenant of peace setting aside the enmity of a century. After the dancing they smoked the pipe of peace and buried the gory battle ax, and when this had been accomplished they gathered about their camp fires and broke bread together. At the feast all was harmony, and members of the three tribes mingled with no thought of the long, fierce enmity just terminated by mutual consent. During the present week another dance of a similar character will be held in California, in which these tribes will be joined by the Digger Indians.

It would be good to know what had caused these remnants of once powerful tribes, as they stood facing certain extinction in the near future, to lay aside all feeling of enmity and form a treaty of peace and brotherhood. The death of a nation, whether barbarous or civilized, is not a matter to be looked upon with indifference. The origin and early history of these American Indians must ever remain shrouded in mystery. Under what suns the ancestors of these few remaining redmen first saw the light; the cause of the difference in language, custom and physical appearance; these things may never be known. Amid the many discoveries made in the countries of the earth, among the ruins uncovered of prehistoric races, not a thing has ever been found anywhere by anthropological students which has thrown the faintest gleam of light upon the origin of these sons of the forest. From whence in the long ago did they come to these shores? A question that, despite many theories advanced to the contrary, most thoughtful persons would say has never been satisfactorily answered. Of their history since the coming of the white man, of their final destiny, we are certain, and ought to be painfully conscious. The approach of the dance of death for them is rapidly nearing. They are unaware and unconscious of its approach. For us this fact increases the pathos which we cannot but feel as we look ahead a little way into the future. —Denver Times.

THE Associated Press dispatches from Manila are not without bias. Those present at a great meeting in favor of the independence of the island are described as "malcontents" and "followers of professional agitators."

THE next fireworks display is set for Morocco. The world can't get along without its little entertainment.

THE Russo-Japanese peace agreement was a plain matter of cash after all—railway concessions, loans for railway building in China and loans by American capitalists to both countries.

DURING the month of July 253 Chinese were admitted to the United States and nine were deported. Of those admitted ninety-eight were United States citizens, fifty-one returning merchants, seven merchants coming in for the first time, twenty-two members of merchants' families, and fourteen belonged to other exempt classes. Of the number deported five claimed to be residents.

FROM many quarters come indications that "property" interests are being alarmed over the increased production of gold. They fear the value of accumulations will be lessened—that the gold dollar will be worth relatively less and the accumulations will thus shrink. It is the same old story. "Property" interests are ever on guard against anything that would depreciate their relative value. A few years ago it was the fear of bimetalism that gave them a nightmare, and if gold production increases much more the nightmare will recur and steps will certainly be set afoot to offset the influence of the increased supply of money.

Has Fought His Last Fight

The question is frequently asked among the followers of the ring as to whether old Bob Fitzsimmons, the veteran of more ring battles than any of the fighters of recent times, and the sturdiest of his class, will return to the ring again.

Fitzsimmons ten weeks ago was matched to fight Mike Schreck at Salt Lake City. He went to the Mormon town and started to get in shape for his match. He found, however, that since his last fight with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien a year ago that he had gone irretrievably back. That he had gone the way of all fighters. A few miles run on the road left him short of wind, and he was scarcely able to drag through a few rounds with his trainers. Realizing his condition, and that he would be in no shape to enter the ring with a youthful opponent like Shreck, Fitz took the first opportunity to call the fight off and bundled himself back to New York. From there he went abroad with a theatrical organization and but recently returned to New York.

It may be safely said that Fitzsimmons as a purse fighter has made his last appearance in the ring. He will soon pass his forty-fifth year, and when a man arrives at that point in life he is looking for a more peaceful and tranquil existence than that vouchsafed the men of the prize ring. Fitzsimmons held the world's championship from March 17, 1897, when he defeated Jim Corbett, until he was himself relieved of the title by Jim Jeffries on June 9, 1899. Fitzsimmons also claimed the light heavyweight and middleweight titles. He is now the recognized light heavyweight, but Jack O'Brien and Tommy Ryan have better titles to the honors in the middleweight division than old Fitz.

The lanky one first started fighting about twenty-five years ago. His first fight was in a preliminary for a big event in which he received two glasses of lemonade for fighting four hard rounds, with a brother blacksmith from a neighboring town. In his next fight, which was also a preliminary, young Fitz received a picture of Jem Mace, the English champion to compensate him for his skill and prowess in the ring.

His first notable fight was with Jim Hall in Australia, when Hall put Fitz out in four rounds. He then came to this country and fought many hard fights, spending the time in the interim between battles traveling over the country with theatrical troupes. Now in the hey day of life Fitzsimmons is still anxious and willing to give battle to the wildest opponent, but while the spirit is willing, the flesh is weak and the old man will never climb through the ropes and respond to the going again.

The sale of seats for the Britt-Nelson fight opens in San Francisco today. Promotor Coffroth has already received orders for $35,000 worth of tickets and so great has been the demand for seats that the arena where the fight is to take place at Colma has been enlarged to accommodate 12,000 people. It is estimated that the proceeds of the fight will be between $70,000 and $80,000. The fight takes place at 2 o'clock one week from this afternoon.

Both of the principals are very near weight and will be fit as fiddles for the big championship event. Britt is paying particular attention to leg work, as he appreciates that a long fight will require especial training along these lines. Nelson and Britt each go through a hard course of milling with their numerous trainers, and barring any unforeseen accident the little men will enter the ring to make the battle of their lives.

Britt's friends believe that if he is not able to knock Nelson out that he can travel along the forty-five round route just as readily as Nelson can. Indeed he would have an advantage as every time Nelson goes into rough it he wastes just so much strength on a man whose getting away qualities are remarkable. The writer believes that Nelson has a fighting chance, that chance which every fighter has of getting in the "lucky punch," but that Britt should win. The argument is frequently advanced that the native son has no knockout punch. Admitting that it must be conceded that he has a punch sufficient to beat all the men he has met. He knocked out Lavigne, a man who was the hardest of the sturdy ones among the little fellows, and he repeated the performance with Frank Erne, another fighter of the same class. Nelson is a good game little man, and pre-eminently a fighter, but Britt has the call on other points that count in the ring.

MRS. CORA HALL PRAISED BY A CRITIC

Miss Cora Hall will give a farewell song recital at McKissick's opera house next Thursday evening. The San Francisco Musical Review, in speaking of Mrs. Hall, says:

"Mrs. Cora Hall made her first appearance in San Francisco during the year and her excellent quality of voice and beautiful interpretation justify her to a place among the year's important local events. Mrs. Hall sang the mad scene from "Lucia," and "Dich Theme Hall," from Tannhauser, demonstrating thereby that her voice is not only adapted for the light character work, but has sufficient dramatic timber to fit also the more dramatic works of musical composition."

Miss Mae Currow, who assists her, will render, among her numbers,
Venezia e Napoli No. 3, "Tarantella," by Liszt, one of the big numbers on Paderewski's program. This is only one of the many excellent compositions which she executes in a manner that has won for her the commendation of some of the best musical critics.

Tickets are now on sale at Rosenthal & Aramank's.

ROUGH HOUSE AT THE DEPOT

Day Yardmaster and Lineman Mixed it For Two Furious Rounds Yeseerday

The platform of the Southern Pacific depot in this city was the scene of a hot fight yesterday afternoon between Day Yardmaster Jerry Ayres and R. A. Barnes, a Southern Pacific lineman. As the result of the conflict, Ayres has a cut in the back of the head, Barnes has a badly dislocated nose. C. S. Still who is alleged to have struck Ayres in the back of the head with a pair of pliers while he was fighting, was arrested and Barnes was also taken into custody. Both were released on bail and will have a hearing today.

The quarrel started between Ayres and Barnes over the setting out of a car. Ayres is a much smaller man than his opponent and when they came together after a short argument in front of the ticket office Ayres dropped his adversary with a right swing that would have brought home the money in any twenty-round contest. Barnes got up and the men rushed into a clinch. In the mix up the yardmaster had his vest and shirt torn off and his opponent's odor indicator was being badly. Ayres seemed willing to call honors even and when separated he started through the depot waiting room. The men met again and Barnes started in to try and even matters, when he received another hard swing on his already badly bruised nose. At this juncture C. S. Still is alleged to have jumped in to assist Barnes, who was on the short side of the money, and struck the yardmaster in the back of the head with a pair of pliers.

By this time several of the linemen employed with Barnes rushed in armed with all sorts of formidable looking weapons. One carried a hatchet, another a five pound wrench and a brief space of time it looked as it would be necessary to call out the gendarmes to quell the insurrection. Baggage-master Birge, who is a deputy sheriff, stepped into the excited bunch of men and placed Still under arrest. Order was secured and traffic was restored.

Record Car of Wheat

CAPTAIN JONES REACHES RENO

Selection of Football Squad of University of Nevada to Be Made Soon

H. L. Jones, captain of the university foot ball team, arrived yesterday morning from Elko. With him came three husky lads from the Elko school who will enter the university and will make good material for this year's team. Captain Jones is quite favorably impressed with Nevada's prospects for having a winning team this year and believes it will compare favorably with other years. In discussing the subject Captain Jones said: "The prospect of having a winning team this year seems quite favorable to me. It is my belief that the team will be as strong this year as last. We have several of last year's team with us and many of the new men have had several years' experience in football at the high schools."

"I will have the team out for light practice probably Monday. The work will be merely to get the men limbered up and interested in the game. Coach Rodolph will not be here for several days yet. I received a letter from him some time ago in which he instructed me not to indulge in any tackling or signal practice until his arrival."

"Manager Taylor has not yet arrived and I have not heard from him which will also delay matters to a certain extent. I understand that the schedule of games for this year has been completed. A game with Denver has been arranged to be played late in the season in that city. Three weeks will intervene between the games with Berkeley and Stanford. This will give the team a sufficient length of time in which to recuperate from any injuries which it may receive in the first game."

"The team this year will probably be light and fast, as most of the heavy men of last year's team have left college. We are fortunate in having Manager of Santa Clara with us this year. He will be a valuable man in the back field and will probably be depended upon to do the punting this year."

Body Passes Through Reno
The body of Mrs. Nora Coll, who died Thursday night at Mohawk, Cal., arrived in Reno last night over the N. C. & O. railroad. The deceased was in perfect health Thursday morning and taken suddenly ill in the afternoon, passing away in the evening.

Mrs. Coll had quite a circle of friends in this city, having visited here on many occasions.

WE ALWAYS PLAY FAIR

No Misrepresentation, No Jockeying, No Juggling With the Public

The great house of Kohler & Chase, the oldest and best known music dealers on the coast—the "class" house of San Francisco—whose financial rating is over a million, and who have been in business there fifty-three years, permit of no juggling with their patrons or the public, and as their representative here man, woman or child, can do business with me and receive the same fair treatment.

Why not make it a point today to lay other matters aside, and get that little daughter of yours the piano she has so been hoping for?

It is just as true as the sun will set tonight, that unless you do so now, while I am here closing out this stock of fine pianos for Kohler & Chase (which we are forced to do through lack of suitable location for permanent store) you will have to pay twice as much money for the same grade of piano, or as much money for a low inferior grade piano then, as I am asking in this bona fide closing out sale for a strictly high grade piano, of national reputation.

We mean business—and straight business—and to avoid returning this stock at considerable expense, I am honestly trying to close out at the earliest possible moment, regardless of profit, as fine a stock of high grade pianos as money and skill can produce, embracing such celebrated makes of national reputation as the famous J. & C. Fischer, (the only "Fischer" made), the well known "Behning & Sons" (established in 1841), the ever popular "Kohler & Chase" piano, endorsed and used by nearly every musician of note in California, the "Kurtzman," "Kohler & Campbell," and other well known makes of high standing.

I can, and will, sell these pianos under the conditions brought to bear compelling this sacrifice, at a price sufficiently below their actual retail value to enable a man to come a thousand miles to buy one, and almost sleep at home proud by China.

Two hundred dollars is the amount I propose to save every buyer of a first class piano at this sale, and on some makes and styles as much as $250, and one particular costly exhibition style in even $350. This would be sufficient to give your daughter one first class music lesson a week for five years, which ought to make an excellent pianist, if not a finished musician.

My terms, even at this great sacrifice, are only $25 down and $10 a month—but little more than you would have to pay monthly to rent a piano.

To rent a piano under these circumstances is throwing money away—don't do it. Come to me and buy a piano—own it—on easy terms, and almost at your own price, all the way from $112 to $285 (two elaborate ones pass the three hundred mark). They are worth double this money, and some of them more than that. I want to sell everything today if possible—we've got to sell. They shall be accompanied each by the strongest kind of a guarantee, signed by both Kohler & Chase and the factory that built them.

Come to our temporary wareroom to-day (Sierra street, next door to William Tell house, opposite Harmony hall) and I will make you happy, if a piano at the rarest of bargains will make you so.

Store brilliantly lighted at night, and open day and evening.

A. A. FISHER,
General Agent for Kohler & Chase.

EAT, DRINK AND BE MERRY TONIGHT

Good Time in Store for Those Who Attend Opening of Star Barrel House This Evening

Tonight is the night. The Star Barrel House will have its grand opening, beginning at 7 o'clock, in its new and elegant location on Center street, in the Dean building. Demartini & Lombardi, the proprietors, are fully alive to the best interests of their patrons and every one who attends will be treated right royally—just like princes.

There will be cibles and drinkables galore and Sam Lombardi will be on hand to see that no one is overlooked.

This new resort will be christened by the breaking of a bottle of champagne by the most popular man present at 9 o'clock. These larger quarters of this popular and old establishment are elegantly appointed with everything that goes to make up a first class, stylish homelike place for friends to meet. The very best wines, liquors and cigars will be dispensed by expert hands and it is the intention to have the Star Barrel House unequalled by any in the state of Nevada.

All friends are invited to drop in this evening and participate in the festivities. A good time is promised and what Demartini & Lombardi says goes, every time.

Pleasure, comfort and enjoyment awaits all who come.

BUSY DAY AT CONFERENCE

Methodists Started Work Early Yesterday Morning and Continued Till Late

At the Methodist church last night the services were opened with singing by the choir, after which Dr. Craig and Mrs. Littlejohn sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Rev. Wentzell led in prayer and the Subway Quartet sang a couple of selections. Mr. Graham spoke concerning the publishing interest of the church, which he represents.

Bishop Berry spoke to the young people. He said one's age cannot be told by the years he had spent. Some were old at 25, others young at 80. The young people's movement is yet too young to be criticised, or to be perfect, but not too young to have accomplished much of good. The bishop especially emphasized the duty and privilege of doing little kindnesses and urged young people to seek every opportunity to do little deeds of helpfulness, and make personal efforts to win individuals.

The sessions during the day for the most part were devoted to hearing reports from the different pastors in the conference. They showed the church to be in a most promising condition.

The services today will begin with the usual prayer meeting at 8:30 and from 9 to 12 will be a business session. At 4 o'clock will be held the usual revival meeting, at 7 the street meeting and at 8 a church extension meeting, addressed by Rev. Wentzell and Bishop Berry.

Atkinson's Nevada Business Institute opens next Monday.

EXAMINED BY A GEOLOGIST

Representative of the Southern Pacific is Now Examining White Horse District

T. M. Anderson, representative of the Southern Pacific and a California geologist of some note, has been looking over the Whitehorse mining district for the past two weeks as a special agent for the Southern Pacific.

The company is making a careful examination of the country for the purpose of securing data, it is believed, in its suit against J. A. Ingalls, the owner of the Buster group, and one of the richest mines in the district. The company in the litigation is seeking to recover from Mr. Ingalls a section of land which it claims as a selection made by it under its enormous land grant from the government.

Under the terms of the government grant, indeed, plainly expressed in the wording, the grant excludes mineral lands from its provisions. The Southern Pacific, it is believed, has sent the geologist into the country to secure evidence to fortify it in the presentation of its case.

"We feel no apprehension whatever," said Mr. Ingalls, speaking of the suit yesterday, "as we can see no way that the plain wording of the company's grant and the verbiage of the patent issued to the company can be construed to include this land. Notably mineral land is excluded from the selection to be made by the company, and no sane man will say that the land in question is anything but mineral land."
